TELSTAR & GOULD STUDENTS BALLOT IN MOCK ELECTION

It's Reagan by a landslide, according to voters at Telstar Regional High School. Under the direction of Rod Abbott's public issues classes, Telstar students and staff voted Tuesday in a mock election and overwhelmingly re-elected Ronald Reagan as President of the United States. The vote was 252 for Reagan and Bush to 69 for Mondale and Ferraro.

At Gould Academy, a mock election was held last week. Reagan won that one as well, but by a narrower margin, 91 to 81. At Gould, the faculty supported Mondale.

TOWN MANAGER RESIGNS Judson accepts Franklin County development post

Town Manager William Judson is resigning to take the position of economic development officer for Franklin County. His resignation is effective Nov. 16 and he takes up his new duties at the county courthouse in Farmington Nov. 19.

Mr. Judson presented his letter of resignation to the Board of Selectmen over the weekend. Board Chairman Arlan Jodrey told the board, Monday night, "I've got some bad news for you." He then read Mr. Judson's letter, commenting, "It's hard for me to read it."

In his letter to the board, Mr. Judson said the move was "for personal growth and expanded professional development." He said, "The many kindnesses extended to me and to my family by the people of Bethel will be cherished always."

The board met again last night to discuss how to go about finding the right person to become the new town manager. They were expected to approve an ad to run in statewide papers. When Mr. Judson applied for the position, it was through seeing an ad in the Portland paper.

He came to Bethel in March 1982 and administered a municipal budget of $470,000. As he leaves, the budget stands at $505,000. And, he warns, there will be pressures for it to go considerably higher.

"The growth at Newry (associated with the development at Sunday River) will likely increase the pressure for services on Bethel," he said in an interview this week. "While the additional people moving into condominiums at Sunday River will require additional fire and ambulance protection from Bethel, the taxes they pay on their condos will go to Newry."

He also pointed out that the growth in Bethel's tax base is continued on Page Five

NYA nips Telstar in soccer tourney quarterfinal action

There were a lot of long faces at the Telstar Soccer field last Saturday, and they belonged to the TRHS soccer team, which had just watched their hopes for a soccer championship vanish in the damp chill of the afternoon following a bruising loss to North Yarmouth Academy.

Coach Robert Remington said the quarterfinal loss was harder to take than last year's semifinal defeat. "There wasn't as much disappointment last year because most of (the team) felt they had another year to try. This year they thought they could have gone all the way."

So did many fans and analysts. The Rebels, ranked number one for most of the season, entered the tournament ranked number three. North Yarmouth Academy, on the other hand, entered the game ranked number six. But the rankings meant nothing, as NYA got tougher as the game got longer and put it away with an overtime goal, making the final score 2-1. "Why did they win and we lose," pondered Coach Remington. "It's a question we kept asking after the game."

Some of the answers had to do with the fact that NYA had good talent. "They had two (players) I'd call all-state calibre," said Remington.

District 49 contest winding down to Tuesday decision

Both candidates for the District 49 legislative seat have been running themselves increasingly ragged, travelling between Bethel and Rangeley in their final bids to line up votes for next Tuesday's election. Not that they've bypassed the smaller towns between here and the northern part of the district, but both know where the voters are: Bethel, as of earlier this week, had 1,728 registered voters, according to Town Clerk Merion Brown; Rangeley had just over 1,000, according to Town Clerk Audrey Hodge.

Between the two towns, there are about 51% of the registered voters in the district, which has a total of about 5,500 registered voters. Most of them, 38%, are enrolled Republicans. Only 28% are enrolled Democrats. That should be good news for Al Barth, GOP hopeful, and bad news for Jeff Mills, the Democrats' standard bearer.

But Cathy Newell, the local Democratic Party coordinator says the percentages don't mean much. "Jeff took Andover by two-to-one last time (in last year's special election), and it's a Republican stronghold."

Andover is no longer in the redrawn district, while Rangeley, Lovell and Watford are—all of which are strongly Republican.

Rangeley, according to its town clerk, has 409 enrolled Republicans versus 190 enrolled Democrats. But there are also 402 people in Rangeley who have indicated no party preference. Throughout the district 34% of those who

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR...

To the Editor:

Al Barth is well known throughout Oxford County for his leadership ability, dependability, knowledge of issues, and concern for the needs of area citizens. He has demonstrated outstanding organizational skills in every community group with which he has been associated. Al's positive, outgoing personality gives him the ability to motivate others to work toward common goals. I believe that we the citizens of District 49 need Al's dedication and ability in the State Legislature, and I urge you to join me in voting for Al Barth on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Sincerely,
Steve Wright
Newry

Dear Voter:

During the last nine months you have graciously opened your door to me, listened to what I have had to say, and been very enthusiastic about my campaign for election to the Maine Legislature, District 49.

Thank you for your interest, for your views on state government and most of all for your friendly smiles. You people make all the long hours and many thousands of miles all worth it.

Please vote on Tuesday, Nov. 6.

Sincerely,
Al Barth,
Candidate for State
Representative, District 49

To the Editor:

We all know times have changed in the last 10 years. Personal, social and government issues have become more complex. At times it seems we must spend hours of study to comprehend one issue. This complexity is something we must bear in mind on election day. We need representation that will understand the complexity and far-reaching effects of the legislation that will be dealt with during the next two years.

We need look no farther back than the recent teachers' salary bonus. Few of us would disagree that we must reward those teachers who perform their job well. We want to keep them in the teaching profession to benefit all our children. But what sort of Legislature would pass such a bonus bill with no provision for funding the $2,000 bonus?

The Democrat Legislature passed this bill. It has left the taxpayers of Maine with a multi-million dollar bill to pay. Maine is millions of dollars in debt.

The competence of any elected official who would approve such a bill should be questioned. If a politician does not understand that it is necessary to provide the money to pay for programs, then he/she should not hold the office. It is only basic competence to realize money is necessary to pay bills. What about legislation dealing with budgets, the economy, or environmental issues? Dealing with issues such as these requires thoughtful intelligent legislators.

District 49 is fortunate to have a very highly qualified Senatorial candidate, an attorney, businesswoman and former teacher is running for this office.

Smith believes Maine must operate on a balanced budget. The budget will be balanced not by raising taxes but by reducing expenses. Smith will work to bring more jobs to this area. This is not an empty promise. Smith plans to put this into action by attracting small businesses with good wage scales to our area.

Under the leadership of the Democrats Maine's attractiveness for small businesses dropped from 45th to 47th across the nation (INC., magazine). Smith will work to change that.

The health of Maine's economy is vital to all of us. Vote Smith for Senate in District 49—she'll improve our economy and job opportunities. Mary Anne Smith has the knowledge, skills, and abilities to understand how to make a difference.

Sincerely,
Milton Mills

To the Editor:

In a recent letter to the editor, Al Barth made some statements that I would like to dispute. He refers to Maine's ranking in a recent Inc. Magazine report. This report was meaningless and incorrect. Alexander Grant & Co., a prestigious Chicago accounting firm, ranked Florida No. 1 and Inc ranked them 25th. Second case in point is that Inc. ranked Connecticut No. 1 and Alexander Grant ranked them 35. These huge variations completely undermines the credibility of either study.

He further stated that Lewiston's Bond rating was lowered because of Maine's economic climate which is not true. I have called Moody's Investors and they have completely denied that Maine's economic climate was a factor and claim to have been misquoted. Lewiston's city manager later corrected the city's statement and apologized to the State.

Maine's credit rating was raised two years ago and is the highest rated State in New England and most of the east. Maine is the only State to have its rating increased, east of the Rockies, in the past four years.

In closing, I want you to know that Representative Jeff Mills, in the short time that he has been in the House of Representatives has made an excellent impression on me and all of those who work with him. He is one of the top five best young freshman legislators. I hope that the voters of District 49 will send him back to Augusta to continue his energetic and outstanding work.

Sincerely,
Samuel Shapiro
Treasurer of Maine

To the Editor:

I would like to thank the voters of District 49 for welcoming me as I have campaigned door-to-door this fall. The ideas and concerns you have shared with me on topics ranging from transportation to Workers Compensation, from education to senior citizen services, from tourism promotion to tax relief, will form my agenda for the coming term if you choose to re-elect me.

In response to the campaign rhetoric which seeks to blame all the problems of the past on a single party, it would seem only fair to remember that during the past one-hundred years the Democratic party has controlled the legislature for only two of those years and that it has taken both Republican and Democratic support to pass virtually every bill. No matter who is elected, they will have to work with members of both parties and thus I prefer to look at problems which confront us today and work together toward solving them.

My job as State Representative is to effectively represent you in the legislature by voting in your interest and by assisting you in dealing with state government. I love my work and I ask for your support in continuing the job I began when I was elected last fall. I will work to keep government off your back but on your side, and I respectfully ask for your vote on Election Day, Nov. 6.

Sincerely,
Jeff Mills
State Representative

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my satisfaction that we have two very capable incumbents seeking re-election this fall.

Jeff Mills is a very intelligent and hard-working person. He was raised and educated in this area and his background is in the forest industry which is the economic base of this area. I would point out that much important legislation about the wood industry is coming up this session, and I know that Jeff Mills is very concerned about what constituents think. Last year when a bill came up about the dairy industry Jeff immediately called me to find out how it would affect the dairy farmers in this area.

Senator Ed Erwin is also a great person to have in the legislature especially as Chairman of the Agriculture Committee. I worked with him on a very hard-fought piece of legislation two years ago and I found him to be a very upfront person from the beginning as to his opinions and how he thought he could help or not help. This is one thing I really like about Ed. He is honest and to the point, even telling you what you might not want to hear. He is his own man whose greatest desire is to represent what his constituents want, but he will not mislead them into thinking he can work miracles.

Both Rep. Jeff Mills and Senator Ed Erwin are in the position of having the time to do an effective job in Augusta. During my in-

Thursday, Nov. 8: Baked chicken, mashed potatoes, brussel sprouts, bread, cran-applesauce.

To the Editor:

I would like voters to know that Jeff Mills has gotten results for me in dealing with state government. The Mountain View Store in West Bethel had applied to be a tagging station for hunters and our application had not been acted upon with hunting season just around the corner. Jeff spent a lot of time contacting officials in Augusta and really pushed them along so that we received our approval last Friday. Jeff's help was really appreciated by us and I know that, with a full term in the legislature, he will be able to continue to work for us when we have problems with state government. I hope you will vote for him on Nov. 6.

Sincerely,
Gerald Tyler

Involved with the bill two years ago I became aware of the fact that when things get going down there in Augusta, a legislator must be able to put in at least 60 hours a week to do an effective job for his district. I hope you will join me in voting for Jeff Mills and Ed Erwin on Tuesday.

Sincerely,
Tim Carter

THIS WEEK AT THE MOSES MASON HOUSE

All members and friends of the Bethel Historical Society are reminded that the monthly meeting of the society will be held Thursday, Nov. 1 (tonight), in the meeting room of the Moses Mason House, Margaret Joy Tibbets, society treasurer and chairman of the Board of Trustees will make a presentation on the topic "Memorable Bethel Women" following a short business meeting which begins at 7:30 p.m. The meeting is open to anyone interested and the public is cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will follow the program.

Contributions to the 1984 Endowment Campaign have now exceeded the $5,000 level with 268 donors to date toward meeting the goal of $7,000. Latest donors include Dr. John and Margaret Trinward, Bethel; Robert and Gertrude Imis, Westbrook, Mass.; Maine Federation of Women's Clubs; Mildred Hanson, "The Adams Chronicles", will be held on Wednesday, Nov. 7, in the meeting room of the Dr. Moses Mason House beginning at 7:30 p.m. The film, entitled "John Adams: President (1797-1801)" focuses on Adam's single term as the chief executive of the United States. During his presidency Adams comes to disagree with Alexander Hamilton, Thomas Jefferson and most of his cabinet about the nation's government, England and France are at war, and the young United States is on the brink of war with France. Adams keeps America out of war, suggesting his own epitaph, "He kept the peace with France." He might have added, "at the expense of his presidency," for he lost his bid for re-election to Jefferson. His son, Charles, dies at the age of 30, leaving Adams to reassess the values and pressures of leadership and public life.

The series is free and open to anyone interested. A short discussion will follow each film. This week's discussion leader will be Dr. Marvin Owings of Gould Academy who will focus on aspects of the American character, particularly those characteristics represented by Adams in contrast to Thomas Jefferson.

And that's why Al Barth is not resting on the strong Republican majority. "The independents are obviously the key to the election," continues to visit Rangeley and other Republican strongholds, to convince independents to vote for said Mr. Barth. And that's why he him—and to convince committed Republicans to go to the polls. "If Republicans keep hearing that Reagan, and Cohen and Snowe are shoo-ins, they may stay home," worried the local GOP candidate. For the same reason, Democrat

KEEN-BEDARD ENGAGEMENT

Rebecca Keen of Bryant Pond is pleased to announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Leslie Ann, to Paul Bedard of Norway. Mr. Bedard is the son of Pete Bedard of Norway.

Miss Keen is a 1984 graduate of Oxford Christian Academy and is employed at Paris Manufacturing Co.

Mr. Bedard attended Oxford Hills High School and is employed at Paris Manufacturing Co. A November wedding is planned.

Jeff Mills is not resting on his probable popularity among voters in Gilead, Byron, Upton and Avon, all of which have Democratic majorities among registered voters.

Additionally, Mills has to worry about voters who will vote for Reagan and Bush and then, if the supposed landslide for the President develops, vote for all the Republican candidates. "Last year I was the only issue on the ballot," said Mr. Mills, "except the moose (referendum). This time, you can't tell how many people will vote a straight (Republican) ticket."

Bethel looms large in the campaign of both candidates. With 32% of the electorate, a win in Bethel would give a candidate a big boost towards an overall win.

While a Bethel victory would not guarantee a win overall, a win in Bethel or Rangeley is a must if a candidate is going to be elected. "A candidate would have to carry one of them," noted Mr. Barth. And Mr. Mills said, "Someone could take every town of the district (except Rangeley and Bethel) and still lose the district."

Bethel's 1,728 registered voters are split almost equally three ways. There are 610 Republicans, 517 Democrats, and 599 independents, according to the town clerk. Despite the GOP majority, "Bethel has always been marginal (in the GOP column)," noted Barth, campaign manager Stan Howe.

As the campaign accelerates to its conclusion, both candidates are mainly trying to meet as many people as possible. Rep. Mills enjoys a slight advantage in this regard, as his current district (District 63) still encompasses half of

COMMUNITY BAND SEEKS MEMBERS

Do you have an old band instrument gathering dust in the attic? Bring it out, dust it off, and join the Community Band Tuesdays at 6:30 p.m. at Telstar Regional High School.

The band has several engagements scheduled throughout December, including the Living Nativity, Sunday, Dec. 22.

At the regular Tuesday meeting the band elected the following officers: President, Brian Dunham; Secretary, Ellen Whitney; Historian, Wendy Hanscom.

DEMOCRATIC DOINGS

The Bethel area Democratic headquarters continues to be open each afternoon between 1 and 4 with other hours as needed. New volunteers include Fran Thurston Doucette, Maxine Brown, and Katrina Colombotos. Anyone who has some time to give is welcome to stop by or to call Mary Keniston or Cathy Newell.

The Democratic committee is sponsoring a fund-raising supper on Saturday, Nov. 3, at the Congregational Church in Bethel. Senator George Mitchell will be at the supper, which will benefit the re-election campaign of State Rep. Jeff Mills. The supper begins at 6 p.m. Rep. Mills addressed the Maine Innkeepers meeting in Rangeley on Monday, Oct. 29. He will be guest of honor at an evening gathering on Friday, Nov. 2, at the Artimus Ward House in Waterford.

the area in which he defeated Barbara D. Brown with 63% last year. But campaign manager Newell downplays this advantage. "If it was the old district, he'd be a shoo-in. The new towns make it a difficult race. It's not the same as being an incumbent in your own district," she said.

Nevertheless, he is running on his record of one year in the Legislature. "I think I've done quite well for the time I've been in," he said. "I've gotten money returned to the towns and I've been around the district, going to the town meetings."

Mr. Barth considers that not very much of a record, nor very much experience. "There's an issue of experience. Even though he's served part of a term, because of what I've done, I have mostly more experience," said Mr. Barth. "I wouldn't tend to be at the beck and call of others. I'd be more independent. I've been here (in Bethel) for 25 years, been around a lot and done a lot." The incumbent entered politics directly out of college (UMO), going to work in the secretary of state's office. He soon thereafter ran for, and won, the unexpired term of Karen Brown in District 63. He said he was planning to run for that seat the following year (this year) anyway.

But aside from picking on what he views as the incumbent's immaturity, Mr. Barth finds little that particular separates him from Mr. Mills. This point is acknowledged by the latter. "We seem to agree on everything," Mr. Mills said.

Mr. Barth likes to make the point that the big issue between the two is that he is pro-business and the Breman administration—and, by extension, Rep. Mills—is not.

"I think the attitude in Augusta should be one to improve the business climate in Maine," Mr. Barth argued. "They have no idea to reduce the cost of doing business (by amending workers' comp) or promote tourism. If we can do that, we'll (develop more jobs and) have more people paying in to the system."

As for his opponent, "He's supportive of them (in Augusta) and I would fight against them. I don't see much change unless the Republicans can gain control of the Legislature. If I can at least slow down things and be of service to people here in this district, I will have done something for them."

Mr. Mills says his opponent is trying to blame his party for things they didn't do. "The idea of trying to blame the Democrats, who have only been in power for two years out of the last 100, is unfair."

On the question of workers' comp, Mr. Mills admits the costs associated with it, but says it was the Republicans who first enacted it. He is all for getting rid of the irregularities. "My father is in the logging business and I know something has to be done."

Mr. Mills defends his vote in favor of increasing the minimum

By saying, "My argument is that people at minimum wage haven't had a raise in three years, while the cost of living has gone up 15%."

"My questionnaire (to constituents) showed that people were in favor of raising it." And, he also points out, the Republican administration in Augusta in 1972 first raised the state's minimum wage above the federal level.

With few particular issues separating the candidates, each is trying to get out the vote—relying on the organizing skills of backers to phone potentially favorable voters and urge them to go to the polls—drive them to the polls if necessary.

"It's really interesting to see how it turns out," said Mr. Mills. And Stan Howe, Mr. Barth's campaign manager, said "I'm predicting a very close race."

Mr. Barth, of Bethel, is director of publicity at Gould Academy. He is a widower with two sons, one of whom is at RPI in Troy, N.Y., and the other a senior at Telstar.

Mr. Mills is a Telstar graduate and a graduate of the University of Maine at Orono, where he was president of the student body. He was raised in Bryant Pond and currently lives in Bethel. He is unmarried.

October is gone and November is here.

Soon it will be time for some Christmas cheer.

Don't waste your time and go running around.

Help our economy and shop in town!

Mrs. Collette Morgan, Corrae.

"The days are growing shorter and the nights are cool and sweet. With a harvest moon that's shining just to make a dream complete; Though a melancholy feeling seems to steal into your heart, Nature loves and laughs in autumn."

And is happy from the start." It was a hazy kind of morning, the sun not as brilliant as usual but cleared by noon. This seemed to be the last chance I'd have to take my fall trip on the Sanborn River before my boat was put away for the winter.

Dark clouds fled before the freshening gusts of wind. Waves sparkled in the sun which poured down and gave zest to my journey down pond.

I turned into the mouth of the river where golden leaves had swept down. I watched others as they zig-zagged to the water and flowed away. In a few minutes hills and forest cut off the sun and laid shade over the water.

I moved on and looked up to see a squirrel flattened on a limb in a patch of sun, his plumed tail waving, then he headed for the deep forest on a high dark road of branches. I stooped to enjoy the scene and to enjoy the odor of the pines. I discovered a large beaver's nest on a limb about six feet from the ground. All the twigs in the bushes stood like scratches of a pen, and a blue jay settled like a blot of ink on one. I sat in silence drinking in the solitude and peace of the place. The blue of the water was cracked by ripples and the dark green forest was still touched by brilliant yellow and a bit of red as far as eye could see.

Every Sanborn ride has its shining moments that persist in memory when all else is dimly recalled. I heard a sound and looked; a lone robin crossed the river and nestled on a low branch to talk to me.

The "doughnut tree" came to mind and I looked for it. It was gone or I missed it.

I pushed around a bend into quietness, like a kitten asleep, waiting for some one to awaken it.

Beyond this, there was a cut-over area and on the bank of the stream a semicircle of hooded stumps. All were dressed in green ferns and moss. The largest was a lone "queen" standing with a crowd of red and green, while all the others guarded her. The waters were in diamonds and sang a special song. I became more relaxed, willing to let time simply slip away.

I could see where the heavens had been at work getting their house-wood, some of which floated in the water.

I turned back from here and stopped once more to listen to the clash of leaves when the breath of a breeze stirred among the branches. I could hear distinctly the fine sifting sound of dropping needles from the evergreens.

A sound of uncertain origin provided a riddle which I didn't solve.

Now I faced Noyes Mountain and could clearly see where the leaves had been whipped from the trees, strewn to the ground, like slow drops of colored rain. The feathered poplar leaves still floated over the valley like flocks of golden birds.

Home again I had thoughts of intangible things; a wealth that some would never find; holding not tags of dollars and cents but security and freedom.

Fay Holt was in Boston again on Tuesday for eye treatment. She is some better. Her son, Robert, and her husband went with her.

I called on Denise Adams and baby, Jessica, on Wednesday. Frank and Dot Curtis had as callers Stephen Lomestrom, Charles Perrino, Charles Salisbury of North Kingstown, R.I.; Ralph Leeper, Timmy Delano, Westport; Tommy Bragg, West Sumner; Evangeline Carlisle, Kathy Curtis, Irene Stevens, George Buck, local.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Holt, Ricky and Jennie Windsor; Ann Holt, Bethel, were at Leonas and Fay Holt's, on Sunday.

Lee Ann Searles and son, of Farmington visited her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Curtis, on Sunday.

Rena Curtis and Eva Felton were in Freeport, the last of the week.

Zilpha DiLorenzo and I attended the Hayes-Lesvesque wedding on Saturday.

Fred Curtis was at his son's camp in Kingsbury for a couple of days.

Doris Hayes had Dianne Spires, and son, New Hampshire, and

North Paris

Eveline B. Vatcher, Corrae.

We were blessed with a few drops of rain on the weekend and we need much, much more for the wells before the ground freezes. Many hunters were out, but I didn't see a deer.

Robert Isley, Airmen First Class, graduated from welding school at Chanute Air Force Base on Oct. 31. More details when he arrives Oct. 31 for a furlough before reporting to Rome, N.Y.

Robert Anderson, Burlington, Mass., spent Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, with his brother-in-law, Joe Vatcher and Eveline, and went rabbit hunting. Monday, Oct. 29, Anderson and his brother-in-law, Michael Fucarle, Woburn, Mass., came for two weeks of deer hunting, and they pray for sun.

Mr. and Mrs. "Root" Lawrence, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vatcher, visited their niece, Arlene Abbott and family for dinner in honor of James H. Goff, Jr., of Lan-

Mrs. Enwin Hayes, Connecticut, with her on Saturday and Sunday. They were here to attend the wedding of Scot Hayes and Tina Levesque.

Sent in by Viva Whitman:

A cloudy, drizzly day, but we need some rain to fill the wells before winter sets in, so guess we better be glad to see it. The trees are nearly bare now and when I listen to TV, I am glad I'm not where they are getting heavy snows this time of year. It will come soon enough, and though it is as beautiful in its own way as any other time of year, I dread the winters more and more. Must be because I'm feeling older or something. I used to be as anxious as anyone to see the first snow fall, but not now.

I made my usual trip to see my doctor in Harrison on Monday to have another treatment on my sinuses. One gets pleasure going to see him as they never know what he is going to say next. He says what he thinks and doesn't care whether it sounds good or not. He has helped my headaches so guess he knows a little about what he is doing. He told me he had been in practice for 58 years, so he should know something by now, and sure does.

Wynona and Michael brought Courtney to stay with Grandma this week while they were on vacation. She came on Sunday and they came to get her on Friday. Couldn't stay away any longer, I guess. I have had a good time with her and it is so much fun to watch little ones when at play. I gave her my parsons table to use for a table and she brought a little chair that was just right for it. She had lots of fun making believe set the table and making things as I did. I shall miss her, now that she is not here, but with her folks in Lewiston. I enjoyed the time I did have with her anyway.

as an old farmer and his wife. Games were played and refreshments served.

Had to make another trip to Harrison to have my back treated on Tuesday, but that didn't take too long. Russell had peeled squash on Monday night and we cooked it and put it into containers to freeze on Tuesday. We have it all taken care of now and it is a good feeling. Lawrence and Grace got quite a few to freeze and hope they like it as well as we do.

Russell decided he better make a portico and whatever you want to call it, over the outside steps, so has been working on that this week and got it done finally. Haven't painted it as yet, but will when the weather clears.

Have done a little sewing on a dress for Wynona this week, but my eyes won't let me see to sew on dark material on dark days, so got to wait for the sun to shine, before I can finish it.

Took Courtney outside to play most every day as there is more room for her to run around here than in the city of Lewiston. She loves to get outside, and will swing as long as anyone will push her. She has one of those new plastic swings that you can hitch little ones into and they won't fall out, and enjoys every minute she is in it. It gave me more excuse to get out also and I enjoyed it too. I decided to go do a little shopping on Thursday afternoon and took Cori with me. She was tired, but a good girl just the same. Friday morning we had to go do laundry and get groceries as usual. Had just finished lunch when the door opened and in walked Cori's mother and father. We knew they were coming some time that day, but didn't look for them quite so soon. Courtney was glad to see them and we got her all packed and they were on their way home. After having her for the most of the week, the house seems empty and quiet. As I told Russell, we had an obstacle course to follow through out the week, but didn't mind as we love to have Courtney around.

Guess Wynona and Michael had a good time in Vermont, but found things very expensive and as they were running out of money, decided to come home a day early. They brought me one of those little air ferns in a pretty shell and a little maple syrup to go on Russell's pancakes, when I make them.

Got to get busy and get something ready for Grange tonight and hope there are enough folks come to have a meeting. Last time, we had supper, waited and not enough showed up, so came home. Hope that doesn't happen tonight.

Forgot to say that we were pleasantly surprised one night to like someone was doing target practicing also. Just hope there are no accidents this year. I always hate to hear of someone getting shot by a fellow with an itchy trigger finger. Take time and see what you are aiming at before pulling that trigger. It might be your best friend and you will have to live with the fact that you were the one that fired the shot that downed him. It happens too often, so take care and be careful when in the woods. Guess that it is the most important thing I can say at this time of year, and hope everyone does take special care while hunting.

Senator Bill Cohen

For Maine . . . For America.

A Solid Record of Accomplishment

During his six years in the Senate, Bill Cohen has compiled an enviable record of service to his state and the nation.

- Authored the nuclear "build-down" proposal, which has been co-sponsored by 45 Senators, endorsed by nuclear freeze proponents such as former Maine Senator Ed Muskie, and adopted by the Reagan Administration as this country's arms control negotiating position. He also visited the Soviet Union earlier this year for five days of talks on arms control issues with leading Soviet officials.
- Is the chairman of the Senate Footwear Caucus and has championed the cause of 17,000 shoeworkers in Maine whose jobs have been threatened by foreign imports.
- Wrote the law reforming the Social Security disability insurance program. Before passage of the Cohen bill, thousands of disabled persons had been unjustly removed from the disability rolls and denied benefits.
- Worked with Senator Ed Muskie and Governor Joe Brennan to resolve the Indian Land Claims dispute which threatened to impose economic chaos on the state of Maine.
- Authored the law which requires government agencies to use more competition in government contracting. An analysis by the Congressional Budget Office said that the Cohen bill will save the government $2 billion per year.

- Made good on his pledge to kill the environmentally destructive Dickey-Lincoln hydroelectric project in northern Maine.
- Worked to keep Loring Air Force Base, which was slated for closure, fully operational. As a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, Cohen has been successful in advocating full funding and an expanded role for the base.
- Wrote the amendment which permitted Bath Iron Works to compete for the building of the CG-47 Guided Missile Cruiser, a contract which now means thousands of jobs to BIW.
- Is one of the strongest Congressional proponents of the Equal Rights Amendment and a host of other measures designed to give women a stronger voice and economic position in our society.
- Helped literally thousands of Maine people with individual problems through his six Maine offices, reflecting his strong commitment to constituent service.

Richard Felt was at West Minot where he and Dot Cartwell played for the 110th celebration of the Grange Thursday night.

Lettie Brooks and Olive Davis attended a housewares party at Alice Hoyt's home Wednesday noon. Thursday evening Carl, Lettie and Olive were at West Paris Grange attending their harvest supper when they were entertaining Chapel Valley patients.

Lettie and Olive, and Lillian Curtis attended the retired teachers meeting at Nonway Universalist Church, Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Tucci took dinner with me Friday noon. It was a glorious day and we spent the afternoon on the porch in the warm sunshine.

Jeanne Vancour of Shelburne, N.H., came to Maine. She picked up Richard Felt and Olive Davis and we attended Oxford Grange Hobo Night, Friday evening. Chester Hayes was reported as being at home and going now. His address is Star Route, Gorham, N.H.

The hunting season is upon us. Be careful and be sure what you are shooting at, hunters. If you see a deer with a bow on its neck, don't shoot. It is a tame deer and may walk up to you to be fed. It is no honor to you to shoot a tame deer, but a disgrace.

Olive Davis was at Bridgton Sunday visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Andrews and sister, Lillian. They all took a trip to Mr. and Mrs. Chris Halasky's at Gorham to see their new trailer they have moved into.

The town dump is being closed and the citizens will have to go to Locke Mills with their waste from now on. They have to get a card at the town office to give them permission to dump their waste there. Woodstock has joined with the Greenwood unit.

NOTES FROM WOODSTOCK HISTORICAL SOCIETY

We recently found a book on the White House at the turn of the century. One of the most interesting things in it was a list of the menus. It is hard to believe such lavish meals were served even in the first establishment in the land. Here are some samples.

At a dinner in November, 1915, the following delicacies were offered: Brown bread and butter, striped bass with lobster sauce, braised sweetbreads with mushroom sauce, filets of beef with Bernaise sauce, broiled tomatoes, spinach, potato roses, squash, celery salad, fruit ice cream, scotch and soda, claret, sherry, champagne.

For a Cabinet Dinner on Dec. 15, 1910 the following was served: caviar in ice, clear soup with artichokes, cheese straws, terrapin, chicken mousse with mushrooms, saddle of lamb, mint sauce, string beans, potatoes, pate de foies gras in aspic, pheasants, lettuce salad, orange jelly, pistachio and vanilla ice cream, cake, coffee, maroons, marshmallow caramels, peppermint paste, peppermints.

For a Diplomatic Dinner on Jan. 2, 1914, the following modest menu was forthcoming: caviar in ice, turtle soup, cheese straws, mousse of halibut, lobster sauce, artichokes with mushrooms, filets of beef, stuffed tomatoes, string beans, new potatoes, asparagus with hollandaise, mallard ducks, mixed salad, strawberry ice cream, cake and coffee. The wine menu only included the following: claret, hock, sherry, champagne, creme de menthe, and cognac.

Well, back to hamburger and hot dogs!

Safety Tip

Before long those little white flakes will be falling down. Remember that the first few storms are usually the most hazardous for driving. The weather may start as rain, then turn to freezing rain.

Many people do not have their snow tires on when the first snow storm hits. You must be extra careful when you have just summer tires on. Plan on extra time for getting to work. When there is a storm stay home if it is at all possible.

Make sure that you clean your car off before leaving home.

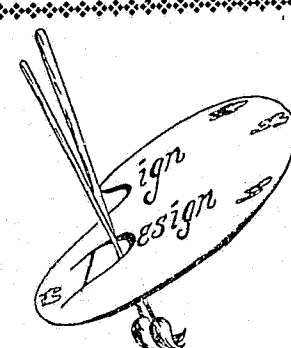

You need to be a defensive driver when out in a storm. Keep your eyes open and be prepared that the other fellow is going to do the unexpected. Slow your driving down during a storm.

Remember during the first few storms that these isn't even a snowbank to help slow you down. Be aware that bridges freeze before the road surface does.

An Open Letter from REPRESENTATIVE JEFF MILLS
to the Voters of District 49

DEAR FRIENDS:

During the campaign season I have been going door-to-door throughout the District, and have had the opportunity to visit with many of you and listen to your concerns and ideas.

Your concerns—whether relating to highways, taxes, the environment, senior citizen issues, tourism or education—will form my agenda for representing you. Your ideas open avenues for issues upon which we could work together.

Your hospitality always reminds me of what a special area this is, and I want you to know that, if re-elected, I will work hard for you and for our area.

I will keep in touch through newsletters and surveys, and by attending town and community meetings.

I respectfully ask for your support and your vote on Election Day, Tuesday, November 6.

Sincerely,

JEFF MILLS

Down by the river, which at this time of year, flows undulating and pulsating, weaving itself forward like a silken grey ribbon, stands a huge oak tree. The wide space of its branches keeps a clear space around it, and outside its perfect circle, lie hundreds upon hundreds of acorns. Who knows for sure how many years it has stood there—perhaps even the length of time that this particular countryside saw migrant Indians passing the terrain and stopping for shade under its branches! When the North Road was cleared and built, this tree was spared—maybe because of a slight twist in its trunk, it was deemed no good for lumber—and left standing there. For more than a century it must have been looking down upon the river, rising and growing, until it could look across the river—because of its height, to open fields and farmlands, and pastures paced off by grey stone walls. Every three years it bears an enormous crop of acorns—and the area all around it—has been planted with oaks, by its widely flung castings. Thus the old oak, kept on growing—not in height—but in girth and deep rootedness. It has escaped lightning, resisted winter damage and withstood hurricanes. The power to grow has resided in the tree itself—and the forest creatures know it well.

And now as the clouds bedeck the summits of the mountains around us, and the sky looks ominous, the old oak stands there deep rooted, calm, overlooking the river—which runs to the sea, never failing to offer sanctuary.

Yes, there is a peace in country living. Time, measured by seasons, has a way of equalizing events. A severe winter serves to eliminate pests. A dry summer forces systems to do deeper. Heavy winds tear dead wood out of trees—everything serves a purpose.

pose. And so it is with our lives—like the old oak—we must accept what happens and use it to our advantage. This is indeed the countryman's point of view—as we cross the long, grey bridge forwards—towards the winter, which can only serve as a stepping stone to greater deep rootedness and personal evaluation, a process of structuring and strengthening, within ourselves.

And T.S. Eliot's lines sing within us:
"We must be still and still moving Pass into another intensity."

Mary Tyler took her daughter, Kathy, to Littleton, N.H., where Kathy received the 6th degree of the Grange. Mrs. George McArthur spent Saturday afternoon and evening with Mary Cole, in their absence.

Kathy and Kenny Cole have moved from Bryant Pond, and are happily settled into their new residence here.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Loring took Sunday dinner with Elsie Bryant in Bryant Pond. Many were pleased to see Mrs. Bryant make her second appearance on the Good Morning America show one day last week.

Chris Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Chapman, traveled with his team from Telstar to the cross country meet held in North Windham last Saturday. Out of a group of 93—Chris placed in the middle 50s. Good going, Chris. Better luck next year, Telstar.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Belanger spent a few days with their son and other relatives in Manchester, N.H., recently.

Sunday the Belangers took dinner with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Louie Boutin, in West. Milan, N.H.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Legendre of the Bog Road, traveled to the Maine Medical Center in Portland, Monday, where he remains under treatment at this writing.

Ms. Darlene Corriveau and family were here over the weekend from Bath.

Many hunters were noted to be in the area this week, but many a shot was heard—so it is anyone's guess as to the multitude of the deer herd in this region.

Children's Center

The center has been hopping with activity in preparing and celebrating the Halloween holiday. Children have made masks, hats, and bag monsters. They have also carved pumpkins, roasted pumpkin seeds, and sung pumpkin songs. Halloween was greeted with costumed children from the center parading and playing band instruments up and down Main St., Bethel. Back at the center the children continued Halloween merry making with face painting, apple bobbing, blind man's bluff, decorating pumpkin cup cakes, and a buffet lunch with parents attending. Quite a day!

★ Star of the week is beautiful brown-eyed 4-year-old Theresa Watterhouse of Bethel.

A small group of children from the center have been enjoying story hour at the Bethel Library and really appreciate the excellent selection of books for young children there. Thanks go out to Virginia Keniston for having the children.

The Children's Center programs are family oriented and have had excellent parent participation in many center activities. Thanks again go out to you all.

Tri-Town is looking for new members in all areas. The auxiliary could use people interested in phone calling, doing laundry and raising money for the service. The next auxiliary meeting is set for Nov. 5 at the West Paris bank.

The ambulance service is looking for in-service dispatchers. This would be a person who would be near their telephone for a 12 hour shift (6 a.m. to 6 p.m. or 6 p.m. to 6 a.m.) and listening to a scanner. When a call is received, the in-service dispatcher would arrange for one first responder and a back-up crew to handle a second call if necessary. The person would only talk to attendants, not the person needing the ambulance.

Tri-Town could also use active personnel to take care of patients. The service requires advanced first aid or EMT training with a state

Rotary Club News

The Bethel Rotary Club held its luncheon meeting on Tuesday, at the Only Place in West Bethel. Rotarians are reminded that the luncheon meetings will be held at The Only Place through the month of November.

The program chairman for Tuesday's meeting was Romeo Baker. His speaker was John Head who spoke about the Bethel Airport Corporation. The transition of the corporation to the present foundation provided for an interesting speech. Many dedicated people have done a great job in planning a quality airport for the area.

There will be a board of directors meeting next Tuesday at 7 a.m., at Dr. Shaw's office. The regular luncheon meeting will be a club assembly. Let's make an effort to be there.

"DEALING WITH PEOPLE" SEMINAR SCHEDULED FOR NOV. 9 & 10

The S.A.D. 44 Adult & Community Education program and NTL Institute are co-sponsoring a weekend seminar entitled Dealing With People, on Nov. 9 and 10. Instructors for the seminar will be Charles and Edie Seashore of Washington, D.C., and Bethel. The seminar will be held on Friday evening starting at 6 and during the day on Saturday and is open to anyone who has not previously taken a similar group-process class. There will be a reunion for individuals who took the Dealing with People Seminar last spring on Sunday from 4 - 7:30. Both the seminar and the reunion will be held at the Seashore's residence, Bingham House, on Broad Street in Bethel.

The seminar has been designed to allow local residents to become more familiar with the type of experience that people have traveled from all parts of the world to Bethel to undertake. It consists of discussion and exercises to help participants better understand how groups function and how they, as individuals function in a group. Edie and Charles Seashore, with their many years of NTL-Bethel experience, have a strong sense of NTL and Bethel's shared history and will share some of this with the class.

Local residents who participated in the Dealing With People seminar last spring were very positive about the experience, describing it as very enjoyable, a chance to get to know other people from this area. They felt that

NOTES FROM THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce met Tuesday morning at the Fabric Emporium. There was discussion about advertising in the Maine Publicity Bureau's publication and DownEast's summer guide. Bill Riley and Mac MacMunn had investigated several sites for the location of a railroad museum. Wendy Gray will contact Canadian National Railroad concerning the possibility of using their land. The monthly evening meeting of the chamber will be held at the Bethel Historical Society at 7 p.m. on Nov. 13. The meeting's discussion will center on the development of the railroad museum and all those willing to lend their support are urged to attend. The coupon page should appear in The Citizen in a couple of weeks. The Boston Ski Show is scheduled for Nov. 9-12. Milt Simon from radio station WKZS in Lewiston made a presentation for a 13 week advertising schedule to promote shopping, dining and skiing in Bethel. The chamber voted to lend their support to the project. The election day meeting is scheduled for 7:30 a.m. at the Chapman Inn.

dale, by a vote of 18 to 8, as did the freshmen, by 10-7. But the sophomores, juniors and seniors swung the pendulum towards Reagan.

In a race of local interest, the Telstar voters gave the nod to alumnus (and Democrat) Jeff Mills over his Republican opponent Al Barth, who has a son at the school. Mills won handily, 183-139.

In other races tabulated at the high school, Senator William Cohen easily outdistanced his Democratic challenger, Elizabeth Mitchell, 252-73, and Congresswoman Olympia Snowe warded off her Democratic opposition, Chipman Bull, 292-35. Republican state senator challenger Mary Anne Smith unseated Democratic incumbent R. Ronald Twitchell, 187-135, and Sheriff Alton Howe retained his uncontested seat, although local police chief Bob Stearns tallied six votes as a write-in.

Teacher Rod Abbott found the breakdown of registrations inter-the seminar made them much better acquainted with NTL, and many attended the Sunrise Seminars during this past summer at NTL.

QUARTERFINAL LOSERS

Another factor may have been the NYA style of play. "They were bigger and very physical," he said. "They're a hockey school. It's their style of play."

Whatever the reason, "NYA took charge of the game in the second half," the coach recounted. The Rebels had felt good at half-time, on the basis of a Shawn Smith score. But midway through the second half the visitors returned the favor.

Coach Remington blamed the goal as much on the referee as on the opposing offensive and defensive units. His consternation concerned the referee's insistence that the coach come onto the field to look after goalie Ken Viger, who went down in pain following a collision with 204 students and staff declaring themselves Republicans and only 75 registering as Democrats. The remaining 106 registered as independents. Mr. Abbott said it was unusual for the Republicans to outdistance the Democrats to that extent.

Helping to run the election were Republican campaign managers Brent Lizotte and Leigh Whitman, and Democratic campaign manager Rachel Belanger and Mike McGuire. The following students assisted in counting the ballots: Eric Wright, Denise Eliot, Jane Head, Susan Cole, Shari Cole, Judy Hutchinson, Lisa Thurlow and Penny York.

NO CHANCE: Telstar's Mike Kelly had no chance to follow up a Rebel shot on North Yarmouth goal in last Saturday's quarterfinal game in Bethel. NYA goalie Eric Fenton held on to deprive the Rebels of the score, and North Yarmouth held on to their overtime lead to win the game, 2-1, finishing Telstar's championship hopes for the season. Shawn Smith, who had Telstar's long score in the first half, looks on in frustration at the thwarted score.

disin in front of the Rebel net. Remington refused, asking the referee to check on Viger, knowing that once he stepped onto the field, Viger would, according to the rules, have to come out. The ref insisted, however; Remington came on; Viger, not seriously hurt, went out; and a few minutes later NYA looped a shot over the head of shorter substitute goalie Brandon Salway.

The coach blamed the ref rather than Salway for the score. But he made no excuses for the loss. "Somebody had to win. They just beat us. Everybody's disappointed, but it's over with."

But there's always next year, and Coach Remington was already looking around to see who would be returning. As it turns out, most of his team will graduate this spring. Goalie Ken Viger—a sophomore—will still be around, as will freshman starter Amos Kimball, whom the coach is very high on. "He may develop into one of the best we've ever had."

One fullback and one sub will also be returning. But, in most positions it will be a building year. Still, Remington thinks he can build rapidly. "Among the 8th graders there's a lot of talent. I expect we'll probably start next season a little shaky, but by the end of the season we'll be a tough team again."

The 1984 version of the Rebels were certainly tough, finishing at 11-5-1 overall.
